

Backlinks Breakthrough:

Get One Way Back-links from High PageRank Blogs, Fast and FREE -- Without Spamming

The person who recommended this report also recommends this site

Greetings.

Gary Harvey of eProfitNews.org here...

I've got to tell you about a marvelous software tool I found called CommentHut. The Lite version is FREE and it does a fine job.

Who can benefit from this?

Any webmaster and any blogger who wants more quality links pointing to his or her sites and blogs... without paying for them.

What results does it deliver?

- CommentHut will get you one way back links, fast.
- It gets new sites indexed by the search engines speedily.
- And it will deliver the targeted traffic that you want.

How does it work?

CommentHut goes out and finds all the WordPress blogs that use your chosen keyword or "key phrases" (put them in double quotes for more precise targeting). It only lists blogs that accept comments. You can specify what PR you want too. Then you simply click the URL and visit the blog to post a relevant comment.

Don't leave a worthless, spammy comment – take the time to find a post you want to make a sensible response to. Be sure to include your site's URL in the 'Your website' panel so that when your comment is published you have your one way back link. Because you've added something of value, your post and your URL will remain there for a long time. Just what we want!

What's in the upgraded version?

It allows you to post to blogs using other blog platforms like Livejournal, Typepad and Drupal. Please note that the free version only gives you 10% of the available results but that may be sufficient for your purposes. If you'd like the extra power of the full version, you can always upgrade.

Is it hard to use?

Not at all. There is a nice short video which explains almost everything you need to know. The only thing I had difficulty with was this:

When you want the software to check the PageRank, you need to click on any of the lines in the results panel, then right click and choose 'Select all' and then click on the 'Check PR of Selected URLs' at the bottom of the screen. That's probably obvious to most people but I missed it at first.

Do you have a blog where I can add a comment and get a backlink?

Sure do. <http://blog.eProfitNews.org>
And so does my wife. <http://PamPonders.com>

PPS: Here's an article I wrote about a piece of profitability software that I've been using for months now. It's dead easy to use and I love it. You probably will too.

“Software helps people make money online by evaluating headlines!”

Software picked the title of this article!

If the title of your article doesn't grab their attention, you're dead in the water... right?

Folks will never read what you wrote and they will certainly never follow through to your site from the article, wherever it gets published... IF it gets published!

But what if you could quickly check what you've written against a vast database of profitable sales letters and get an instant Profitability Score?

A low score would tell you the headline is lousy and won't make you a brass razoo. A high score is what you want, the higher the better. The higher your score is, the more your piece is like the web's most profitable web pages.

Sounds great, eh?

Such software would be a marketer's dream!

So you'll understand how delighted I was when I ran across software that does exactly this. Let me show you how it works.

We'll copy some sentences in. It will give me an instant profitability score, then I can tweak the text to try to improve the score.

Ready?

I started out by writing this for the title of this article:

"How to write the most profitable title for your next article"
Score: 2

That score is... abysmal.

However the software shows me that 3 of my words are negatives, lowering the score:

how -20

your -15

next -31

So by removing those, my score will go up by a total of 66 points. Here we go...

"Write the most profitable title for your next article"

Score: 27

Better, but still lousy. So I will have another few tries...

"Write the most profitable article titles"

Score: 70

Nah. I'm not happy with where this title is going... which is basically nowhere. So I abandoned it and came at the whole proposition from a new angle.

"Let easy instant research pick profitable article titles"

Score: 189

Now that's a bit more like it. I played around some more and came up with these improvements...

"An EASY way to write profitable article titles..."

Score: 155

"If you could find an EASY way to write profitable article titles..."

Score: 201

But I could do better if I removed these two negative words:

if -18

you -11

"Looking for an EASY way to write profitable article titles?"

Score: 262

Now, let's see what happens if we remove the question mark.

"Looking for an EASY way to write profitable article titles"

Score: 255

Hmmm. We went backwards. Ah, I have an idea...

"Looking for an EASY way to write profitable article titles..."

Score: 331

Can we do even better, I wonder...

"Clever software helps people make money online by instantly identifying how profitable your words are"

Score: 254, but it showed me a few negative words. So I removed them and the winner is...

"Software helps people make money online by evaluating headlines!"

Score: 440

Quick summary

We've gone from a lousy headline (with a low profitability score of 2) all the way up to 440. A thoroughly worthwhile improvement, wouldn't you agree?

Click here to examine the software that has done all the heavy lifting.

Curious, isn't it?

When you go there, you might notice one word in the headline is spelled wrongly. It's the word mathematically, without the letter e.

Why so?

Well, let's score the headline then fix the spelling and score it again.

"Discover Copywriting Software That Improves Profitability Using Statistical Analysis To Mathmatically Study Profitable Ads... Guaranteed!"

Score: 597

Now that is a mighty good score, but let's fix the spelling and see if the number goes up or down.

"Discover Copywriting Software That Improves Profitability Using Statistical Analysis To Mathematically Study Profitable Ads... Guaranteed!"

Score: 561

Aha.

The software shows that by spelling the word correctly, you actually have a less profitable headline.

Talk about helpful information.

Talk about counter-intuitive!

And the neat thing is this software has many different uses. As well as article headlines, you can use it on: entire articles, labels for images, 'about the author' text blocks, email subject lines, blog headlines and posts, ebook titles, etc.

And it's FUN to use.

PS:

The author information below gets a score of 636. Impressive, eh?
